The Filmbüro Augsburg e.V. will hold three internationally renowned festivals this November in Augsburg.

The big festival starts off with the 22nd Children's Film Festival on 24th of November.

For the 22nd time a children's jury will select the two best films of the competition.

As every year ten newly released international films, a special programme dedicated to Gunter Friedrich, animations films beyond Disney and the best Shorts for kids can be seen.

On the 24th of November the 16th Days of Independent Film set off. This festival is known for a exquisite selection of independent documentary and feature films. This year's focus is on new developments in film technology. Besides that it shows special programmes and introduces a country. One of the highlights of this year's festival will be a special programme dedicated to Cannes winner Michael Moore (Roger and Me).

The 12th Conference of International Film Students starts also on the 24th until the 30th of November. This Conference is unique in Europe and the presentations, discussions and workshops compromise topics from technical questions, to film history and the "learning of the trade" to ethnic problems. And all the participants get the chance to present their work to the audience of the festival.

From the 28th November to the 1st of December the 11. Short Film Weekend promises an enormous international selection of Shorts from all genres. Here the audience decides about the award.
